Miss Haynes Graduate Recital

From the Lexington Herald of May 21st, we clip the following mention of one of Marion's brightest and most attractive girls:

The graduating recital of Miss Gwendoline Haynes, pupil of Miss Florence E. Latimer and cantata "Lady of Shalott," under the direction of Miss Metta K. Legler, were given in Sayre College Chapel last evening before a highly appreciative audience.

Miss Haynes, assisted most acceptably by Miss Winnie Garrett of Winchester, gave the first part of the program in a very satisfactory manner. This young musician gave every evidence of careful training and thoughtful preparation of the selections rendered. She has a clear technique played with genuine musical feeling, both in her solo work and as accompanist, in the latter part of the evening. We prophesy many more happy successes for this talented performer.

Miss Legler provided a delightful musical treat for the audience in presenting her carefully trained class in Bendall's cantata the "Lady of Shalott." This inquisitive production was charmingly rendered by a class of forty voices, and so great was the success of their effort, we hope it may be an annual feature of Sayre commencement. Miss Ethel Halmgreen, a Sayre pupil rendered the solos in a manner charmingly unusual and won praise. She is a promising young singer.

Judging from last evening's performance, Sayre has every reason to be proud of her music department. Following is the program:

MEDICINAL WATER

Z. B. Cullen brought a bottle of water to this office taken from a mineral well on the farm of his brother W. N. Cullen of Repton, Crittenden county, that is claimed to contain splendid medicinal properties and might bring that place into fame as a health resort if it were properly exploited. A full analysis has been made of the water and McHargue the chemist making the analysis, says in a foot note: The sample contained considerable ferruginous sediment. It is a Calcic-magnesia water containing a good deal of iron and should have value as a mineral water on account of its laxative and chalybeate properties."—Webster Co. Times.

Bright Act—Stood Baby On Stove.

Uniontown, Ky., May 29.—Herman, the eleven-months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Porter Davis, residing near this city, is suffering from burns inflicted by his small sister standing him on a stove. The girl did not know there was fire in the stove and stood the little tot on top of it. His feet were burned almost to a crisp.

Mr. Franks is a Crittenden County boy who has gained honor and wealth in the business and political world and should a Republican be elected every one of his Crittenden County friends would be glad for it to be Governor Franks.

Steamer Strikes Rock—

Sixty Drowned.

Panama, May 25.—The National Steamship Line steamer, Tahoga, struck a rock off Punta Mala on Tuesday and sank a short time afterward. Of the hundred passengers on board only forty are known to have been saved.

The Tahoga had a cargo of cattle and was on her regular coastwise trip.

The scene of the accident is about 150 miles from the nearest telegraph station, which makes it difficult to obtain details of the accident.

J. B. Hubbard Was Sent As A

Delegate To The Baptist Convention.

J. B. Hubbard, assistant cashier of the Farmers' Bank, has returned from Jacksonville, Fla., where he attended the great Southern Baptist convention.

He left Marion Sunday May 14th, and spent the night at Fullton with Rev. M. E. Staley, thence to Jackson, Tenn., and on to Birmingham, Ala. On this part of the trip he noticed on all sides, thrift and enterprise. The country is full of orchards and fruits of all kinds, thence to Columbus, a fine cotton section, where also they are cutting oats and winding up the strawberry and raspberry crops and peaches and apples are coming in. Another thing new to Mr. Hubbard, was the turpentine orchard through which he ran for two hundred miles and saw much of the crude juice being hauled to market in ox-wagons, driven by old time daries.

Thence through Americus, Smithville and Albany on to Jacksonville, where the great Southern Baptist convention was in session and occupied his time until the following Monday. After this was over, he with several other friends, visited the ostrich and alligator farms and went also to St. Augustine, the oldest city in America, and spent a half day on the coast and took sea bath. He and his party then returned to Jacksonville and after getting their tickets validated, started on the returned trip arriving home Thursday morning without mishaps.

Mr. Hubbard considers the greatest treat of all his trip, was hearing the sermons delivered by Rev. George W. Truitt, of Dallas, Texas, whom he describes as "the greatest living man."

Giant Chopped Trees In Jiffy.

Seattle, Wash., May 25.—Alexander McPherson, a giant Scot, claims the world's championship for axmen. He believes he has broken the records at chopping and sawing down trees by his performance this week.

McPherson, with an eight ounce ax bit succeeded in falling a tree with an average girth of sixty-three inches in one minute and thirty seconds. The tree was a green fir and he was handicapped by a pocket of pitch that broke out on the north side of the tree. He did not chop out the cut but chopped downward, leaving a ragged, long stump. Sawing with a single hand saw he felled a fir tree fifty-three inches in circumference in one minute and eleven seconds.

With a double cross-cut saw he severed a tree trunk, seventy-two inch girth, in two minutes even. The axes used by the record breaker, were ground so finely that the edge would almost shave a man's face. The pitch found in the fir wood may have held down Scot's speed several seconds.

VICTORY FOR GLENN

In The Senatorial Muddle In Lyon, Trigg And Calloway.

Louisville, Ky., May 29.—The Democratic State Central Committee at its meeting at Louisville Friday sustained the decision of Judge W. A. Berry, of Paducah, committeeman from the First District, that N. L. Chisman was the regularly chosen chairman of the Calloway Co. Executive Committee. It further held that the call for a convention to nomination a candidate for State Senator in the 3rd senatorial district was legally made by Mr. Chisman. This being a victory for Seldon R. Glenn over Henry R. Lawrence, who claimed the nomination.

HOW THEY VOTED.

The vote on both propositions stood: For the Lawrence-Keys faction—N. Powell Taylor, Second district; T. B. Pannell, Third district; J. A. Donaldson, Sixth district; J. A. Sullenger, Eighth district; Henry M. Cox, Tenth district; Woodson May, Eleventh district. For the Glenn-Chisman faction—J. W. Pugh, State at large; W. A. Berry, First district; Thomas J. Moore, Fourth district; R. Campbell Kennedy, Fifth district; Thomas A. Combs, Seventh district; William L. Bramblett, Ninth district. Following the recording of both votes it was announced by Sec'y R. G. Phillips that the vote was a tie and Chairman Prewitt cast the deciding vote in favor of the Glenn-Chisman faction.

Judge T. P. Cook and Denny R. Smith, of Cadiz, argued the case for the Lawrence-Keys faction, and former State Senator N. W. Utley, of Eddyville and Judge J. H. Coleman, of Murray, represented the Glenn-Chisman faction.

Supreme Court Orders Dissolution of Tobacco Trust.

Washington, D. C. May 29.—

The Supreme court handed down its decision this afternoon ordering the tobacco trust dissolved.

This decision was expected today, and the decision comes after a four years' vigorous fight. This case is regarded as the most complicated suit that has ever reached the Supreme court. The court holds that there are five unlawful combinations, namely, the American Tobacco Company, the American Cigar Company, the American Stogie Company and the McAndrews & Forbes Company, the last being concerned in the manufacture of licorice. Those were restrained from engaging in interstate commerce.

Congressman Stanley, of the second Kentucky district, is one of the prime movers of this anti-tobacco trust legislation and is jubilant over the decision handed down today.

Government of the City Is a Business Proposition.

By EMIL SEIDEL, Socialist Mayor of Milwaukee.

THE GOVERNMENT OF THE CITY IS A BUSINESS PROPOSITION AND ALL THE PEOPLE ARE STOCKHOLDERS. PUBLIC OFFICIALS ARE EMPLOYED TO RUN THE ENTERPRISE.

If a city can furnish its stockholders with cheap commodities that enter into the cost of living, then it is the DUTY OF ITS SERVANTS to see that measures are adopted which will bring about this much desired result.

The greatest problem confronting the American people today is the COST OF LIVING. It is the duty of every official to study this problem long and carefully. I think that the biggest single item in the cost of maintaining the home is the MEAT BILL.

No set of men ever exercised the power that these men do. They REACH INTO THE POCKETS OF EVERY MAN, WOMAN AND CHILD IN THE WORLD. They started out poor without a single exception.

Every locality has to face different conditions. Rural districts are free from the problems that confront the congested localities. Why, then, should not EACH LOCALITY BE ALLOWED TO MAKE ITS OWN LAWS, provided they do not infringe on the rights of the entire people of the state or nation?

A CITY REFLECTS ITS GLORY OVER THE ENTIRE COUNTRY. THE RURAL VOTER IS BENEFITED BY THE PROSPERITY OF THE NEAREST MARKET. WHY, THEN, SHOULDN'T HE ALLOW THAT MARKET TO EXPAND TO TAKE UP NEW ENTERPRISES, TO DEVELOP ALONG LINES THAT MAKE PROSPERITY AND HAPPINESS?

A Picture of Universal Peace.

Micah 4:1-8. We know but little of Micah. Isaiah seems to have been a man of ability, statesmanship and influence. The third chapter closes with a terrible picture which would come before Zion for their sins.

Jesus, king of the ages, is ruling in the world today and when all of His purposes are fulfilled, He will come again, and the government shall be upon His shoulders and His name shall be called wonderful and the prince of peace. Then nation shall not lift up a sword against nation neither shall they learn war any more. Micah 4:3. A time is coming and the temple of the Lord will in latter days be so exalted, that it will resemble a mountain in its glory and as they go up into the city and into the temple of our God, He will teach us of His ways and we shall walk in His paths.

1. Religion Supreme:—Oppression will not always triumph. The dark days will give place to starry nights succeeded by a glorious day, that has no setting sun and the dark background. He paints the nation, guilt and sin, then the immortal picture of universal peace. Then let us hold religion supreme above every thing. "They that honor Me I will honor."

2. Religion Attractive:—Religion can never be successfully commended to people by lowering its demands. Man strives after ideas. Notice, this is personal—every man under his vine and fig tree, then it is collectively, "For all the people will walk in the name of the Lord."

Then it is national—rebuke strong nations afar off. "If we would win men to the cause of Christ, we must have religion supreme."

3. Religion:—Brings peace. True religion has the power to lift men above the low groveling malice, envious, petty things of earth and if we fear God and love Him with a whole heart, He will help us to walk in the way of peace and righteousness, but it requires greater courage to fight successfully the battles of life in our hearts, our homes, our churches, our business, our State and nation, than to face the cannon's roaring mouth. But they shall beat their swords into plow shares and we shall sit under our own vine and fig tree and it would be a glorious time for the people if every man owned his own home, simple though it be. The prophet speaks of the day when the Lord will bring back the remnant of the chosen ones from dispersion and captivity.

Go up to the mountain of Jehovah, up to the God of Jacob, He will teach us of His way, and we will walk in His paths.

Editor, Here Is A Bouquet.

Just as we were finishing this writing, our wife walked in placed a bouquet on our table, saying, send these flowers with our best wishes to the Editor, editorial force and the many readers of the Record-Press.

This is an object lesson of peace and Kingdom shall come to the daughters of Jerusalem.

Woman's Stomach

It Causes Much Misery If Not Kept In Condition.

Many women who would not tolerate anything but a scrupulously clean kitchen continue day in and day out to suffer from unclean stomach, where food ferments, turns sour and becomes putrid.

It is just as easy for a woman to keep her stomach clean, as to keep her kitchen clean; in fact it is much easier, and does not require hours of toil.

One or two Mi-o-na stomach tablets after each meal will in a short time thoroughly clean and renovate the most distressed stomach. They will do more; they will put strength and energy into the walls of the stomach, and cause the juices of digestion to flow freely, so that all food will promptly digest.

Women; keep your stomach clean and free from fermenting food, and you will find that other ailments such as nausea, biliousness, sick headache, nervousness, sleeplessness, constipation and palpitation of the heart will disappear.

Haynes & Taylor and druggist everywhere sell Mi-o-na stomach tablets for only 50 cents a large box. They are guaranteed to cure indigestion or any stomach trouble, or money back. They stop belching of gas and after dinner distress in five minutes. Give them a fair trial; they won't disappoint you. One woman writes:

"I had bothered for eight years with gas, belching and bloating of the stomach. MI-O-NA cured me." M25-JJ

Relief In Two Minutes With Wonderful Money Back Cure.

Go to Haynes & Taylor's today, and tell them you want a Hyomei outfit (pronounce it High-o-me).

You can breathe HYOMEI through either the nose or mouth. Read the directions.

Hyomei is made from Australian Eucalyptus and mixed with other important antiseptics, and the greatest, most sensible and pleasant treatment for catarrh ever known.

Just breathe it; no stomach dosing; no sprays or douches, this great antiseptic air soothes the mucous membrane and kills all germs.

DISTURB IT NOT.

BY O. G. W.

Where'er a heart with love o'er flows, Disturb it not, but let it be; The spark divine cannot be quenched, In sooth, it were not well with thee.

If e'er upon the wide earth's round An unpolluted spot be found, It is a youth's fresh ardent heart In love's first rapture deeply bound.

Oh, grant to him the sweet spring-dream That blooms with rosy flowers bright; Thou know'st not what a paradise Is lost, when this dream takes its flight.

For many a stout heart has been broken When love was rudely torn away; And long endurance oft has turned To hatred and despair for aye.

And many a lonely, aching soul In direst need has loudly cried, And thrown him down into the dust,— The lovely god he had died.

In vain, then, dost thou weep and grieve; For no repentance on thy part Can make a withered rose revive Or re-awake a deadened heart.

Goat Leads Seventy-Five

Sheep From Flames

While Thirty Of His Brothers

Perish In Kansas City

Stockyard Fire

Kansas City, Mo., May 24.—

Fire which for an hour this afternoon endangered the entire Kansas City stockyards and the live stock Exchange building, destroyed sheep pens covering an area a block square, burned sheep estimated to number 1,000 and partly destroyed two mule barns.

The fire started in a fertilizer plant at the south end of the yards and was swept into the sheep pens before a high south wind. Many of the sheep were guided in lanes and driven in safety into other parts of the yards. One goat was seen leading 75 sheep to safety through an open gate. Thirty goats which were used to lead the packing houses perished.

From the sheep pens the fire swept to a row of mule barns.

Several thousand mules were turned around save. Thousands of spectators who thronged the streets, stock lanes and fences were in danger of their lives when the mules stampeded. The frightened animals were finally headed into a stock pen. Sparks from the burning pens set fire to a school building 5 blocks away. The pupils already had been dismissed. The school building was saved. The damage is estimated at less than $50,000.

We are authorized to announce Thomas S. Rhea, of Logan county as a candidate for treasurer, of the state of Kentucky, subject to the action of the democratic primary, to be held July 1 1911.

Oh, be at least able to say in that day,--Lord, I am no hero. I have been careless, cowardly, sometimes all but mutinous. Punishment I have deserved, I deny it not. But a traitor I have never been; a deserter I have never been. I have tried to fight on thy side in thy battle against evil. I have tried to do the duty which lay nearest me; and to leave whatever thou didst commit to my charge a little better than I found it. I have not been good but I have at least tried to be good. Take the will for the deed, good Lord. Strike not my unworthy name off the roll-call of the noble and victorious army, which is the blessed company of all faithful people; and let me, too, be found written in the book of life; even tho I stand the lowest and last upon its list. Amen.--C. Kingsley.

TOBACCO TIDINGS.
BY R. F. WHEELER.

KEEP YOUR EYE ON THE MAIN ISSUE

There has been, in the discussion on the tobacco situation, much wrangling over matters of minor importance. We are too prone to work ourselves into a frenzy over matters that are trivial. We are, at times inclined to lose sight of the main issue in the case.

Some 5 years ago, the tobacco growers, of this district, organized the Stemming District Association. The tobacco of the five counties is practically all the same type. It goes on the same market.

Some years ago the buyers of our tobacco, the English manufacturers, organized. One object was to get their tobacco at a low price. They succeeded. The only way that we successfully cope with the situation was to get all of this tobacco into one organization and be on equal terms with the buyers. Hence the organization of the Association. How well it has succeeded is a matter of history. The only reason that it has not been a perfect success, the only reason that we are not getting every cent our tobacco is worth is attributed to the farmers themselves.

The Association has controlled more than 75 percent of the tobacco since the second year of its existence. But owing to grievances, real, or imaginary, many farmers have persistently stayed out of it, some have formed other organizations and have pooled tobacco that was put on the market in competition with that of the main organization. It not only hurt us but it is hurting themselves. Now we are not going to say a word against any organization. Every farmers organization in this county is a good one if its work is confined to its own sphere. But organizations, like individuals make mistakes. We are talking to you as manto man, and must tell you the truth. We have been in a position to know, and do know that the business management of the association has been conducted ably, honestly and economically. He who tells you otherwise is ignorant of the facts in the case or is trying to mislead you.

We have every reason to believe that every tobacco pool in the district has been managed honestly and economically. The Association has always sold for a good price. Other organizations have sold for a good price.

A few cents difference in price or expenses is not vital. Let us get down to the real issue.

Now we all know that for any organization to be successful, it must have practically all the tobacco of the same type under its control. The association has for several years successfully handled more than 75 percent of the crop. No other organization has ever pooled more than 8 percent of the total, although some of them have been in the district for three years. At that rate it would take some thirty six years to get control of the crop.

Every man of any business judgement knows that the only way that any organization can help the price of tobacco, after it is pooled, is to put a fair price on it, put it up, if necessary, and hold until it gets the price. The Association has put all or a part of its tobacco every year of its existence, except one, that year it got its price without. No other organization in the district has ever financed or put up any tobacco, nor have they demonstrated their ability to do so.

So long as the Association pools so large a percentage of the crop and holds it for good figures any individual can sell his tobacco for a good price. Any small pool can do the same, but both is at the expense of the members of the Association. As long as that organization will consent to stand between you and danger, you are all right. We know that your intentions are good. You are firing in the direction of the enemy, but unfortunately, very unfortunately, your shots are taking effect in the ranks of your friends, the Association.

Every man who pools his tobacco in the Association is a member of that organization. He has as much authority in conducting its affairs, and shaping its destinies, as any other member. In it the majority rule. Its officers are elected annually. The men who are now its officers are such because they are the choice of a majority of the members. Its business policy is what it is, because the majority so wills. Do you know of a fairer, or better method.

If you should get the district in another organization what would you gain? You would certainly expect the majority to rule in that also. You certainly would not expect persons not interested in our type of tobacco to run our affairs. Then in that case would not the same ten-thousand men who are now members of the Association be in the majority in that also? Is it safe to assume that because you got them in a different organization that it would change their views on business methods.

The writer of this article is a farmer. He is a tobacco grower. His interests are identical to that of the fourteen-thousand other growers of the district.

His only motive in writing this is to try to better the condition of these same tobacco growers which includes himself. He has been a member of the Association, since its organization in this County. He has kept in close touch with its business management. While he knows that it has paid to the farmers more per hundred, after all expenses were paid than any other organization, he waves that argument. It is important but not vital.

The real problem that confronts us at present is simply this: No other tobacco organization, in this district, can survive, for twelve, months the downfall of the Stemming District Tobacco Association.

In order to continue, the Association must have practically all in its ranks especially those who now believe in pooling tobacco.

So it is up to you Mr. Farmer! It is up to you.

Local Dentist Honored

Dr. F. W. Nunn, returned from Owensboro, Ky., Thursday where he had been in the session of the Kentucky State Dental Association, for three days. Dr. Nunn was honored by being elected to the official staff for a period of three years, he being one of four elected by the Association to the board of trustees. These honors have here-tofore gone to Louisville and Central Kentucky, but as the tide has turned and West Kentucky has among her dentist some men who can not be excelled in the profession. Not only Dr. Nunn but Marion and Crittenden County should be proud.

Miss Marian Wagar Clement at home Friday evening, May 26, 8:30. Gail Hamilton Cruce, Elizabeth Lee Spencer.

Cards reading as above were issued last week to many of the young people of the city, who responded and enjoyed the hospitality of this home until the wee small hours.

Aviation Meet In Evansville.

June 9th And 10th.

A great Aviation Meet will be held in Evansville Friday and Saturday June 9th and 10th. At that time two of the most famous of the Curtis School of Aviators will come to give demonstrations of what the up-to-the minute birdmen have done toward the complete conquest of the air, and to entertain thousands of spectators with exhibitions of fancy flying and attempts at altitude records.

Interest will undoubtedly center in the altitude flights, which will be made by the Aviators and should the air currents be favorable it is expected that some very high flights will be made and possibly record smashing events take place. The Curtis School of Aviators have established themselves thoroughly in the world of Aviation as men of fearless ability and they have been recognized as especially able to accomplish altitude flights.

A feature of exceptional interest will be bomb dropping contests between the aviators. Competition among the aviators for scores in this contest, will, of course, be keen, and the public will be given a great treat.

In addition to the bomb dropping events, five other sensational features will be introduced on the program, anyone of which will be worth far more than the fifty cents which will be charged for admission to the grounds.

The Curtis Machine today holds the record for quick flights from the ground, this record having been established by Glenn Curtis at the recent Aviation tournament on the Pacific Coast. All transportation lines are making reduced rates to Evansville for the big meet June 9th and 10th.

Letter From Los Angeles, Cal.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 22, 1911.
Mr. S. M. Jenkins.

Marion, Ky.

Dear Friend:--Please publish to all the Record-Press family the good news. Our meeting closed at the First Church of the Nazarene last night with two hundred bright, happy professions. This is a great church, in a great city, and we are having our share of the good things. My! what singing we had during these meetings. I begin tonight with the German Methodist and then to another M. E. church here in the city, but will not move, so my address is 5694 San Pedro street until June 18, then, Ontario, Cal.

Eva and William will have a few things to tell when they get back to old Kentucky. They have visited the ocean three times and have made the water splash in the bath plunge and I think they are planning a big trip for this week. Oh! say, listen, a friend of mine with a beautiful Hudson automobile, gave us a fine trip Saturday afternoon. Barney Oldfield is not in it at all with Fred Epperson. We made fifty-four miles in one hour. How's that for speed on a State road? But I would not have Al Pickens, John Eskew and John Wilson to run over 35 or 40 miles an hour over our roads until the good road project is farther advanced.

I hope the fish will bite with their mouths next Saturday, as a good looking crowd of preachers came around this morning and made me promise to go with them fishing on that day-- you may know about how long I was making up my mind to go, as they proposed to furnish the auto, bait and tackle and pay all expenses. A few of you old Marion boys might come along and go with us.

Well now I must ring off. I am liking this country better every day.

Your Friend and Bro.
W. B. YATES.

NOTICE

TO SHEEP OWNERS

Under the present State law no sheep can be shipped or driven from one county to another without first having been inspected by the county Live stock Inspector, and a certificate given that the sheep are free from Scabies.

In order to avoid confusion and probable delay all owners of sheep who find any of their flocks out of condition, should have them inspected a sufficient length of time, before shipment to have them dipped, if it be found necessary on inspection, to have them dipped. The law requires diseased sheep to be dipped two times before shipment, the last dipping to be from ten to fourteen days after the first.

If any sheep are found to be diseased in any neighborhood it would be better for all owners of sheep in that neighborhood to arrange for an inspection on the same day, so as to avoid the expense of so many trips by the inspector. I can inspect all sheep known to be free from disease on the day of shipment and issue certificates for a reasonable charge. But owners had better not bring in any sheep for shipment without inspection unless they are certain that said sheep are free from disease as they may have to take them back home.

The law provides that any one having diseased sheep or knowing of diseased sheep, shall immediately notify the inspector and upon his failure to so notify the inspector such person is liable to fine, and it is also finable offence for any one to attempt to ship diseased sheep without first having them inspected.

DIES FROM OPERATION

Sam Gugenheim's sister

Expires Unexpectedly.

S. Gugenheim who was notified by telegraph Monday of the death of his sister Mrs. Heinman of Evansville, left on the first train for that city. While he was aware an operation was to be performed he was shocked beyond expression at the sudden and entirely unexpected death. The Courier of Monday says:

As a result of a serious operation performed Saturday in hopes of saving her life, Mrs. Abe Heinman aged 48, living at 3rd and Washington avenue, passed away at a local hospital at 10 o'clock last night. She was one of the most active workers of the Washington Avenue Jewish Temple, and had a wide circle of friends. Mrs. Heinmann was born and married in Evansville.

She is survived by a husband, one daughter, Mrs. Joe Blumenthal, of Altoona, Pa., and her father, A. Gugenheim, Third and Washington ave. Her daughter was summoned to the city last week when the seriousness of the illness became apparent. Mrs. Heinman had been in failing health for several months. The funeral arrangements have not been made.

It stands to reason that with so much expense in labor, the enduring quality of the paint is all important.

Why have the painting done unless the protection and durability of the job is sought?

How is one to determine the true value and obtain paint that may be depended upon for durability?

HANNA'S GREEN SEAL PAINT IS NOT A SECRET. This paint has the printed formula on every package.

Caterpillars Stop Train.

Tulsa, Okla., May 30.—A passenger train was delayed in Manford, west of here, today by millions of caterpillars clustered on a bridge. The wheels of the engine, crushing the larvae, made the track slippery and the drivers spun on the rails. Sand was ineffective, so the train was backed up and, after gathering momentum, slid through the mass of crushed worms.

The plague of caterpillars is general over eastern Oklahoma. At Ocort park this afternoon street cars were stopped on account of the pests and houses and trees were literally covered with them.

Can't Be Separated

Some Marion People Have Learned How to Get Rid of Both.

Backache and kidney ache are twin brothers.

You can't separate them.

And you can't get rid of the backache until you cure the kidney ache.

If the kidneys are well and strong, the rest of the system is pretty sure to be in vigorous health.

Doan's Kidney Pills make strong, healthy kidneys.

William Redd, a farmer, Marion, Ky., says: "I was subject to sharp twinges through my loins when I stooped or lifted and was also troubled with a pain in my back. At night I had an acute backache and when I arose in the morning, I was very lame. I tired easily, felt dull and languid and at times was nervous. The kidney secretions were too frequent in passage and I was obliged to arise from three to four times during the night. Learning of Doan's Kidney Pills, I procured a box at Haynes & Taylor's drug store and after using them about three days, I received such great relief that I continued taking this remedy until I was cured."

COURAGE.

The soul, secured in its existence, smiles at the drawn dagger and defies its point.—Addison.

Cowards die many times before their death; The valiant never taste of death but once.

Courage in danger is half the battle.—Plautus.

Write on your doors the saying, wise and old.

"Be bold, be bold!" and everywhere "Be bold; Be not too bold!" Yet better the excess

Than the defect; better the more than less;

Better like Hector in the field to die

Than like a perfumed Paris turn and fly.

—H. W. Longfellow.

DANGEROUS LIES.

That a lie which is half a truth is ever the blackest of lies;

That a lie which is all a lie may be met and fought with out-right.

But a lie which is part a truth is a harder matter to fight.

—Alfred Tennyson.

BUSINESS.

A big business country must have big business, and ours is the biggest business country in the world.

Business depends upon the ease and quickness with which people can mingle and trade together.

To stop the growth of business organizations is to stop the growth of the country.

Service is the test of theories. Shall we go backward or forward? The price of the raw materials that go into wagons and agricultural implements has increased, while the price of wagons and agricultural implements has gone down, and at the same time these wagons and agricultural implements today are guaranteed.

Politicians denounce big business, but ask the farmer if he is willing to go back to the blacksmith shop for his plows, harrows, wagons and reapers.

PUBLICITY.

Anything that will promote the confidence of the investing public is a good thing for business institutions. I know of no other one thing which would trend more in this direction than for the corporations to deal frankly and fairly with their stockholders by revealing their actual financial and physical conditions.

Shareholders have an unquestioned right to know how the company in which their money is invested is being conducted and how the business stands.

There was a time, not long ago, when officers and directors of corporations treated such organizations almost as their personal property. That day has passed.—Secretary MacVeach

OBEDIENCE.

Obedience is the grandest thing in the world to begin with. I do not think the time will ever come when we shall not have something to do, because we are told to do it, without knowing why.

... The one essential of civility was obedience.—George Macdonald

How we live.

We live in deeds, not years; in thoughts, not breaths; in feelings, not in figures on a dial.

We should count time by heart throbs. He most lives who thinks most, feels the noblest, acts the best.

Life's but a means unto an end, that end

Heghuluz, mean, and end to all things.—God

—Philip James Bailey.

NEW THINGS.

I am not sure in this era of new laws, new standards and new morals whether the fact that a thing is old is a recommendation or an indictment. There is evidence both ways. But my conviction is that age may have its benefits and even things that have passed away may perhaps have been respectable. We live too much in the present, too little in the past, and I am apprehensive that we live too little in the future. Our eyes get centered on a single object, and we pursue it with an eagerness that seems like frenzy. In our passion to obtain we neglect to preserve and forget that there have been and will be other times than now.—Frank S. Black.

DEATH.

Can storied urn or animated bust

Back to its mansion call the fleeting breath?

Can honor's voice provoke the silent dust

Or flattery soothe the dull cold ear of death?

—Thomas Gray.

No Danger

In taking Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey for coughs and colds. It contains no habit producing drugs. Look for the Bell on the bottle.

LITTLE THINGS.

Little drops of water, little grains of sand,

Make the mighty ocean and the wondrous land

Thus the little minutes, humble though they be,

Make the mighty ages of eternity.

Little deeds of kindness, little words of love,

Make our earth an Eden like the heaven above.

—Frances S. Osgood.

NEED OF CONTROL.

What the American people have done during nearly forty years of legislation and experience is to establish a policy for the control of transportation lines and great aggregations of capital in corporate form.

I maintain the wisdom and the necessity for such reasonable control. It has been adopted by the deliberate judgment of the nation and, in my opinion, has come to stay.

No great movement of this kind grows among a whole people without justifying cause. It is not the work of shallow minds or of demagogues.—Frank B. Kellogg.

PROSPERITY.

If adversity hath killed his thousands prosperity hath killed his ten thousands; therefore adversity is to be preferred. The one deceives; the other instructs.

The one miserably happy, the other happily miserable, and therefore many philosophers have voluntarily sought adversity and so much commend it in their precepts.—Burton.

We Don't Have to Tell you what it's for it's name tells. Dr. Bell's Pine-Tar-Honey is the best cough medicine and several million people already know it. Look for the bell on the bottle.

The Great Conservation Novel

CHAPTER XIV. PLAGUE AND MURDER.

UPON leaving timber line Cavanagh and Wetherford entered upon a wide and sterile slope high on the rocky breast of the great peak whose splintered crest loomed above them. Snow fields lay all about, and a few feet higher up the canyons were filled with ice. It was a savage and tempest swept spot in which to pitch a tent, but there among the rocks shivered the minute canvas home of the shepherd, and close beside it, guarded by a lone dog and lying like a thick spread flock of rimy bowlders (almost unnoticeable in their silent immobility) huddled the sheep.

"There's your house," shouted Ross to Wetherford.

The older man, with white face of dismay, looked about him, unable to make reply.

"Hello, there!" shouted Ross, wondering at the absence of human life about the camp. "Hello, the house?"

Receiving no answer to his hail, he turned to Wetherford. "Looks as if Ambro has pulled out and left the colts to tend the flock. He's been kind of seedy for some days."

Dismounting, he approached the tent. The colts, who knew him, seemed to understand his errand, for they leaped upon him as if to kiss his cheek. Ross put him down gently. "You're almost too glad to see me, old fellow. I wonder how long you've been left here alone."

Thereupon he opened the tied flap but started back with instant perception of something wrong. For there, on his pile of ragged quilts, lay the Basque herder, with flushed face and rolling eyes, crazed with fever and entirely helpless. "You'd better not come in here, Wetherford," Ross warned. "Joe is here, horribly sick, and I'm afraid it's something contagious. It may be smallpox."

Wetherford recoiled a step. "Smallpox! What makes you think that?"

"Well, these Basques have been having it over in their settlement, and, besides, it smells like it." He listened a moment. "I'm afraid Joe's in for it. He's crazy with it. But he's a human being, and we can't let him die here alone. You rustle some wood for the stove, and I'll see what I can do for him."

Wetherford was old and wasted and thin blooded, but he had never been a coward, and in his heart there still burned a small flame of his youthful, reckless, generous daring. Pushing Cavanagh one side, he said with firm decision: "You keep out of there. I'm the one to play nurse. This is my job."

"Nonsense! I am younger and stronger than you!"

"Get away!" shouted the older man. "Gregg hired me to do this work, and it don't matter whether I live or die but you've got something to do in the world. My girl needs you, and she don't need me, so get out of here and stay out. Go bring me that wood and I'll go in and see what's the matter."

Cavanagh looked him in the face an instant. "Very well," said he, "I'll do as you say. There's no use of our both taking chances."

It was beginning to rain, and the tent was dark and desolate, but as the fire in the little stove commenced to sputter and the smoke to pour out of the pipe the small domestic took on cheer. Wetherford knew how to care for the sick and in the shelter of the canvas wall developed infirmness vigor and decision. It was amazing to Cavanagh to witness his change of manner.

Soon a pan of water was steaming, and some hot stones were at the sufferer's feet, and when Wetherford appeared at the door of the tent his face was almost happy. "Kill a sheep. There isn't a thing but a head of bacon and a little flour in the place."

Twenty miles of most difficult trail lay between Cavanagh's cabin and this spot. To carry the sick man on his horse would not only be painful to the sufferer, but dangerous to the rescuer, for if the Basque were really ill of smallpox contagion would surely follow. On the other hand, to leave him to die here unaided seemed inhuman, impossible.

"There is only one thing to do," he called to Wetherford, "and that is for me to ride back to the station and bring up some extra bedding and my own tent and so camp down beside you."

"All right, but remember I've established a quarantine. I'll crack your head if you break over the line an inch."

There was no longer any feeling of reaching up or reaching down between the two men—they were equals. Wetherford, altogether admirable, seemed to have regained the manhood he had lost in the forest. "This Basque ain't much of a risk; but, as you say, he's human, and we can't let him die here and die. I'll stay with him till you can find a doctor or till he dies."

Forest

pack horse and burdened him with camp outfit and utensils and extra clothing. He filled his pockets with such medicines as he possessed, and so at last, just as night was falling, he started back over his difficult trail.

Wetherford met him at the door, no longer the poor old tramp, but a priest, one who has devoted himself to Christ's service.

"How is he?" asked the ranger. "Delirious," replied the herder. "I've had to hold him to his bed. I'm glad you've come. It's a lonesome up here. Don't come too near. Set your tent down there by the trees. I can't have you infected. Keep clear of me and this camp."

"I've got some food and some extra clothing for you."

"I'm ten down here, and in the morning drive these sheep away. That noise disturbs the dogs, and I don't like it myself; they sound lonesome and helpless. That dog took 'em away for awhile, but brought 'em back again. Poor devil, he don't know what to think of it all."

Ross did so Wetherford commanded him to do and withdrew a little way down the slope and without putting his tent rolled himself in his blankets and went to sleep.

The ranger's first duty in the morning was to feed the faithful colts and to send him forth with the flock. His next was to build a fire and cook some breakfast for Wetherford, and as he put it down beside the tent door he heard the wild pleading of the Basque, who was struggling with his nurse, doubtless in the belief that he was being kept a prisoner. Only a few words like "go home" and "sheep" were intelligible to either the nurse or the ranger.

Cavanagh waited till a silence came, then called softly. "Here's your breakfast, Wetherford."

"Move away," retorted the man within. "Keep your distance."

Ross walked away a little space, and Wetherford came to the door. "The dog is sure sick. There's no two ways about that. How far is it to the nearest doctor?"

"I could reach one by phone from the Kettle ranch, about twenty miles below here."

"If he don't get better today I reckon we'll have to have a doctor." He looked so white and old that Cavanagh said:

"You need rest. Now, I think I've been the smallest. I know I've been vaccinated, and if you go to bed—"

"If you're saying all that preliminary to offering to come in here you're wasting your breath. I don't intend to let you come any nearer than you are. There is work for you to do. Besides, there's my girl. You're detailed to look after her."

"Would a doctor come?" asked Ross quite huskily, moved by Wetherford's words. "It's a hard climb. Would they think the dog worth it?"

Wetherford's face darkened with a look of doubt. "It is a hard trip for a city man, but maybe he would come for you—for the government."

"I doubt it, even if I were to offer my next month's salary as a fee. These hills are very remote to the townsfolk and one dog more or less of no importance, but I'll see what I can do."

Ross was really more concerned for Wetherford himself than for the Basque. "If the fever is something malignant we must have medical aid," he said and went slowly back to his own camp to ponder his puzzling problem.

the path for entry. It was not a "bad" ground, as certain big "bad" grounds, but it was excellent summer pasture, and the sheepmen and cattlemen had leaped at once into warfare to possess it. Sheep were beaten to death with clubs by hundreds, herders were hustled out of the pack with ropes about their necks and their outfits destroyed, and all this within a few miles of the forest boundary, where one small sentinel kept effective watch and ward.

Cavanagh had never been over this trail but once, and he was trying to locate the cliff from which a flock of sheep had been hurled by cattlemen some years before when he perceived a thin column of smoke rising from a rocky hillside. With habitual watchfulness as to fire, he raised his glass to his eyes and studied the spot. It was evidently a campfire and smoldering dangerously, and, turning his

HE PERCEIVED A CHARR'D HAND! horse's head, he rode toward it to stamp it out. It was not upon his patrol, but that did not matter. His duty was clear.

As he drew near he began to perceive signs of a broken camp. The ground was littered with utensils. It was not an ordinary campfire, and the ranger's heart quickened. "Another sheep herder has been driven out and his tent and provisions burned," he exclaimed wrathfully.

His horse snorted and shied as he rode nearer, and then a shudder passed through the ranger's heart as he perceived in the edge of the smoldering embers a boot heel and then—a charred hand! In the smoke of that fire was the mark of human flesh.

For a long time the ranger sat on his horse, peering down into those ashes until at last it became evident to his eyes that at least two sheep herders had been sacrificed on the cattlemen's altar of hate and greed.

All about on the sod the story was written all too plain. Two men, possibly three, had been murdered, cut to pieces and burned not many hours before. There stood the bloody spade with which the bodies had been dismembered, and there lay an empty can whose oil had been poured upon the mingled camp utensils, tent and wagon of the herders in the attempt to incinerate the hacked and dismembered limbs of the victims. The lawlessness of the range had culminated. The ferocity of the herder had gone beyond the savage. Here in the sweet autumn air the reek of the cattlemen's vengeance rose like some hideous vapor, poisonous and obscene.

The ranger sickened as the bloody tale unfolded itself before him. Then a fierce hate of such warfare flamed in his heart. Could this enormity be committed under any other civilized flag? Would any other government intermingling so foolishly, so childishly, its state and federal authority as to permit such diabolism?

In his horror, his sense of revolt, he cursed the state of which he was a citizen. He would have resigned his commission at the moment, so intense was his resentment of the supine, careless, jovial, sullen government under which he was serving.

"By the Lord!" he breathed, with solemn intensity, "if this does not shame the people of this state into revolt, if these deeds are not bound and hung, I will myself hurry them. I cannot live and do my duty here unless, this crime is avenged by law."

Chilled, shivering and numb, he set spurs to his horse and rode furiously down the trail toward the nearest town, so eager to spread the alarm that he could scarcely breathe a deep breath. On the steep slopes he was forced to walk, and his horse led so badly that his agony of impatience was deepened. He had a vision of the murderers riding fast into far countries. Each hour made their apprehension progressively the more difficult.

"Who were they?" he asked himself again and again. "What kind of man did this thing? Was the leader a man like Ballard? Even so, he was hired by whom? By ranchers covetous of the range; that was absolutely certain."

It was long after noon before he came to the end of the telephone line in a little store and postoffice at the upper falls of Deer Creek. The telephone had a booth fortunately, and he soon had Redfield's ear, but his voice was so strangled and guttural that his chief did not recognize it.

"Is that you, Ross? What's the matter? Your voice sounds hoarse."

Ross composed himself and told his story briefly. "I'm at Kettle Ranch postoffice. Now listen. The limit of the cattlemen's ferocity has been reached. As I rode down here to get into communication with a doctor for a sick herder I came upon the scene of another murder and burning. The fire is still smoldering. At least two bodies are in the embers."

At last, bit by bit, from hurried speech, the supervisor derived the fact, the location, the hour, and directed the herder to ride back and guard the remains till the sheriff arrived.

"Keep it all quiet," warned Ross, "and get the sheriff and a doctor to come up here as quick as you can. What is this country coming to?" he cried in despair. "Will this deed go unpunished like the rest?"

Redfield's voice had lost its optimistic ring. "I don't know; I am stunned by it all. Don't do anything rash, Ross. Wait till I come. Perhaps this is the turning point out here. I'll be up at the earliest moment."

The inhibited and disheartened ranger then called up Lee Virginia, and the sound of her sweet voice turned his thoughts to other and in a sense more important matters, for when she heard his name she cried out with such eager longing and appeal that his heart leaped. "Oh, I wish you were here! Mother has been worse today. She is asking for you. Can't you come down and see us? She wants to tell you something."

"I can't—I can't!" he stammered. "I—I'm a long way off, and I have important work to do. Tell her I will come tomorrow. Dear girl, there is a sick man far up on the mountain side with no one to care for him but a poor old herder who is in danger of falling sick himself. I must go back to them; but, believe me, I will come just as soon as my duties will let me. You understand me, don't you?"

Her voice was fainter as she said, "Yes, but I—it seems hard to wait."

"I know. Your voice has helped me. I was in a black mood when I came here. I'm going back now to do my work, and then I will come to you. Goodbye."

Strangely beautiful and very subtle was the vibrant stir of that wire as it conveyed back to his ear the little sigh with which she made answer to his plea. He took his way upward in a mood which was meditative, but no longer bitter.

WHAT I WENT THROUGH

Before taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Natick, Mass.—"I cannot express what I went through during the change of life before I tried Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I was in such a nervous condition I could not keep still. My limbs were cold, I had creepy sensations, and I could not sleep nights. I was finally told by two physicians that I also had a tumor. I read one day of the wonderful cures made by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and decided to try it, and it has made me a well woman. My neighbors and friends declare it had worked a miracle for me. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is worth its weight in gold for women during this period of life. If it will help others, you may publish my letter."—MRS. NATHAN B. GLEATON, 51 N. Main Street, Natick, Mass.

The Change of Life is the most critical period of a woman's existence. Women everywhere should remember that there is no other remedy known to medicine that will so successfully carry women through this trying period as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you would like special advice about your case write a confidential letter to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free, and always helpful.

ALL MY PIMPLES GONE

Girl Tells How a Blotchy Skin Was Cleansed By a Simple Wash.

"I was ashamed of my face," writes Miss Mirtle Pickard of Altamahaw, N. C. "It was all full of pimples and scars, but after using D. D. D. Prescription I can say that now there is no sign of that Eczema, and that was three years ago."

D. D. D. has become so famous as a cure and instant relief in Eczema and all other serious skin diseases, that its value is sometimes overlooked in clearing up rash, pimples, blackheads, and all other minor forms of skin impurities.

The fact is, that while D. D. D. is so penetrating that it strikes to the very root of Eczema or any other serious trouble, the soothing Oil of Wintergreen, Thymol and other ingredients are so carefully compounded there is no wash for the skin made that can compare with this great household remedy for every kind of skin trouble.

D. D. D. is pleasant to use, perfectly harmless to the most delicate skin, and absolutely reliable. A 25-cent bottle will give you positive proof of the wonderful effectiveness of this great remedy.

Some boys call their dad "papa" Oh, gee! that makes me mad, It seems so stiff, and like a book. You bet I call mine, dad.

And he's a ripper, too, you bet The boys all wish they had A father that would laugh and joke, And love them like my dad.

Of course, some times when all the bills Come in he's mighty mad, And then we sit as still as mice And hear him jaw—poor dad.

Its always over glad, and then You bet we all feel soon, And then we all climb on his lap And hug and kiss our dad.

You can't have kids and money too, He says and so he's glad, The good Lord made him poor or else He might not been our dad.

Be A Gentleman.

Not every boy can be a rich man or great man, but every boy can be a gentleman. A boy with gentlemanly manners, who is trustworthy and honest and does his very best every day, will gain attention and confidence of men and will be given paying and responsible positions as soon as he is old enough to fill them. It is right they should. They will never be boys but once, but have fun is not altogether what they are made for. Boys are of value chiefly to make men, good for something in the world. Character like a house, must have the right kind of foundation. The foundation stones of a good character are reverence for God, respect and obedience to parents, deference for old people.
